Alexandria Gazette W.B.WADDEY

SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 17.

THE CRANGE. - This is the season of oranges. which we are receiving in atundance from Florida, as well as from Cubs and various parts of Southern Europe. Our domestic product has greatly increased within a few years, and is likely to increase very much more. The orange is believed my many to be a native of this country, in the region of the Gulf of Mexico, though it is probable that it was originally introduced there and naturalized. Botanists generally think the sweet bitter bergamot and other varicties of crange all of one species. The fruit is usually cultivated, and even then shows a marked tendency to degenerate. It is raised whereover the climate is warm enough, but flourishes best in subtropical districts. The old Greeks and Romans seem not to have known it; for it was, in all like ihood, taken to Europe by the Moors, and is believed to have been introduced into july as late as the fourteenth century, nearly 1,000 years later than the lemon or citron.

Of the sweet cranges the principal varieties are the Portugal or Lisbon orange, the China orange, said to have been brought from China by the Portugese, and now widely cultivated in Southern Europe; the Maltese, or blood orange, and the Majorca, or seedless orange. The bitter orange was extensively raised by the Moors in Spain, probably for medicinal purposes, and is still used for flavoring and for marmalade. The crarge is more readily packed and preserved. along with its congeners, lemons, citrons, and limes, then any other fruit. It is a very valueble crop in Italy, Portugal, Spain, Mait, the Azores, and in Florids. Many people hold that our granges are superior to any of those raised in Europe, and their quality is steadily improving. -N. Y. Times.
